Challenging Our First Graders

As part of the 1 B PBL Unit on conservation and the environment, Ms. Mateo's Environmental Studies elective presented first graders with a challenge. How can you use recycled goods to reflect your personality through your own style? Students agreed on making animal masks from materials they could repurpose. This collaboration will continue into November, with plans for a school-wide trash pickup, fashion and accessories competition, and an awareness campaign. Together, students from all grade levels will work in innovative ways to conserve our precious environment.

More Role Models

NJHS values include respect, perseverance, and generosity. After explaining at assembly what these values mean, BVS members selected, with teacher input, elementary students that faithfully represented one of those values throughout the semester. We praised them at the assembly and they later went to a sundae party with the NJHS. More people to look up to!
